WHILE THE WEATHER IS FINE

TRIBUTE TO COLONEL BAKER.—In Harper's Monthly for December will be found a touching tribute to the memory of Colonel Baker, from the facile pen of John Hay, Private Secretary to President Lincoln. The following is an allusion to the death of the President's friends:

"Alas for the dead hours of honest friendship! the gay fellowship of noble spirits! Where are the good fellows who were such friends at Springfield in the happier days? Hardin's spirit went up through the murky canopy whose fateful shadow hung over the battling legions at Buena Vista; Bissell passed from lingering pain to Paradise, honored in the highest by the State that he had honored; Douglas lies under the prairie in the dear old State, whose half-estranged heart burned with more than the old love for him before he died; Baker rests glorious in death, a precious offering to the spirit of Freedom to which through life his worship was paid; and Lincoln stands, lonely in his power, a sadder, silenter, greater man than of old, time beginning to sift its early snows upon the blackness of his hair, his heart heavy with the sorrows of a nation, his mind and soul pledged to solemn and self-abnegating effort to keep from detriment in his hands the costly treasure of constitutional government."

ONE OF THE BIG TREES GONE.—On the 29th of December occurred an incident in the Big Tree Grove, which will create a sensation among voyagers and curious travelers who have visited that place, wherever the news may reach them in the world. The mammoth tree of that marvelous forest, Hercules, fell. This tree was by great odds, the largest in the grove. Having a leaning toward the southwest of about ten degrees, the rains and snows loosened and softened the earth about his roots so that they gave way to the immense weight and leverage pressing them upward, and Hercules, the mighty, who had braved the storms and rains of not less than twenty-five centuries, succumbed to the deluge of December, 1861.

A WONDERFUL FORTIFICATION.—Among the relics in which Kentucky abounds of the work of ages anterior to the presence of the Anglo-Saxon on the western hemisphere, one of the most remarkable is said to exist in Allen county, on the Tennessee border, and seventeen miles from Bowling Green, where a wall of solid limestone, two hundred yards in length, forty feet high, thirty feet at the base and six feet wide at the top, crosses a neck formed by a bend in Drake's creek and incloses a peninsula of two hundred acres, inclosed by a wall and a ditch, forming one of the strongest fortresses in the world. It is not improbable that the fortunes of war may cause this old fortification to be occupied by a hostile force, and made to play a prominent part in this civil contest.—Louisville Journal.

Without the ebb and flow of our passions, guided and moderated by a beneficent light above, the ocean of life would stagnate.

John C. Breckinridge.

After this man had done as much harm as he could to the Union, he put off for the rebel armies. There he went to work to organize troops and to get up a provisional government for the purpose of adding a portion of Kentucky to the Confederated States. To assist in the latter purpose he collected a party of secessionists in Russellville, and with this material he went to work. About this time he issued the address which was published in the Oregon Gazette, in which paper the candor, purity, and patriotism, of Breckinridge was lauded, and recommended as worthy the admiration of all his followers in Oregon.

The Louisville Journal thus speaks of the last movement of the renegade Senator:

"The question whether Kentucky shall be torn apart, like the question whether the whole of her shall be forced against her own choice into the Southern Confederacy, is one which is to be decided upon the battle field. If the Southern Confederacy can conquer and annex a part or the whole of Kentucky, it will be done; if the true men of Kentucky, seconded by the mighty power of the United States, can prevent such a result, it will be prevented. It is mere foolishness for the friends of revolution, after what they have done, to be making a wretched show of conventions and votes, as if they had the slightest respect for any law of man or God."

We do not suppose that Breckinridge will succeed in dividing Kentucky. Again and again he pledged himself to go with the majority of the people of Kentucky. Again and again have the people of Kentucky declared against secession and rebellion. Breckinridge, like other traitors, has no regard for honor, for his pledges or his oaths.

The Breckinridge party in Oregon has been called into the field. They have never disavowed the acts of their leader; The call of a State Convention has been made by his supporters. It is true they have drawn in a few others, who are remarkable for their greed for office, and who have no hope to gratify it but in joining the secessionists, and precious little in doing that.

Eastern papers announce that Breckinridge was voted out of the Senate without a single member saying, nay! But he remains the god of idolatry with his old party in Oregon.

OBJECTS OF THE PEACE PARTY.—The Oregon Democrat gives a letter from a secessionist in Missouri, with a view of showing how its secession brethren are getting along in that State. That letter says:

"Schuyler county is well organized, and doing a great deal for the South. * * * The South has come off best in every general engagement. * * * * Our country has been invaded and tread upon by a military despotism, so that it has aroused the true spirit of the South, so much so that they never will live in union with the abolitionists again. The North are trying to form what they call peace societies, to acknowledge the independence of the South, or to compromise with them."

The leaders of the Whiteaker party in Oregon are acting with the rebels in Missouri. There we are told authoritatively, that "peace societies are got up for the purpose of acknowledging the independence of the South." The object is the same with the peace men of Oregon. They are all acting in entire harmony with the traitors Breckinridge, and "Davis and Beauregard," who, the Democrat tells us, "are the glory of the land."

One thing that has been learned during the progress of Gen. Dix's expedition is, that the rebels are badly in want of ammunition. In lieu of cannon balls, chunks of bar iron were put in bags for canister, and sometimes almost anything was used. At one battery a mixed collection was found, including cobble stones, iron candlesticks, broken bits of machinery, and a general museum of varieties, sewed up in canvass. One of the guns had been burst, probably by the use of such missiles.

Later from the Dalles, Walla Walla and Salmon River

Arrival of Tracy & Co.'s Express.

Lewis Day, Tracy & Co.'s indomitable express messenger, arrived at this city last evening from the Dalles, having left that place on Monday morning last, at ten o'clock A. M., making the trip in the unprecedented time of four day's traveling—having left here last Friday. Mr. Day met several parties on their way up, and a few had turned back, being afraid to cross "Shell Rock Point," which is one solid mass of ice.

The following items we take from the Mountaineer Extra:

From the Mountaineer Extra of Feb. 16.

EXPRESS FEAT.—Lew. Day has just achieved a feat that has scarcely a parallel in the history of express enterprises. He left Portland on Friday morning, at half past six o'clock, bringing with him a full express bag, and arrived at the Dalles at eleven o'clock last night. Mr. D. came the whole distance a foot, and his walking time was just twenty seven hours. He walked to the Cascades on Friday, sleeping that night at Col. Ruckel's, and making an early start on Saturday morning, arrived here at the hour above stated. The whole distance is over one hundred miles, and considering the condition of the trail, we think it may be regarded as the tallest specimen of walking on record. Who will not unite with us in giving three cheers for the indomitable expressman, Lew. Day!

STOCK.—The reports that reach us from stock owners are decidedly favorable. The majority of them had provided feed for their cattle, and the loss of those who were thus prepared is trifling. The principal losers are those who drove their stock up from the Willamette valley, and made no provision for their sustenance during the winter. All such will lose very nearly if not all their stock. Thus far the heaviest sufferers in this county have been Messrs. Donnell & Fulton. These gentlemen had driven their stock across the Des Chutes, and when the severe weather came on they were unable to get their bands together again. They will probably lose a thousand head between them. Below the Dalles, the settlers have saved all their stock. As a general thing the Indians have lost all their horses. Owners of large bands are left without a single animal. Mr. Hepner has suffered severely. Out of a single band of horses he has lost sixty head, and his total loss must be in the neighborhood of $6,000.

CHANGE IN THE WEATHER.—On Thursday of last week the weather moderated, and from that time to this there has been a steady thaw. Already the ice in the river begins to give way, and a channel is opened for some distance above and below the Dalles. Should the present favorable weather continue, it is reasonable to suppose that the boats will resume their trips before the close of next week.

HEBREW CEMETERY.—Mr. W. D. Bigelow has donated to the Hebrews of Dalles city, a lot adjoining the City Cemetery, to be used as a burial place for the Israelites of this vicinity. A few months back Mr. D. donated a lot to the city for similar purposes. Such exhibitions of liberality are worthy of all praise.

Mr. J. P. Brown was buried on Friday afternoon in accordance with the rites of the Hebrew Church, and his funeral was very generally attended by his brethren of that faith. He has a wife and four children living at New Orleans, and also a son at Yreka, Cal., who is engaged in merchandising.

The following is an extract from a letter received by Mr. H. P. Isaacs, at the Dalles, from his brother at Walla Walla:

"Business very dull at Walla Walla. Oats and barley 8c. per pound, and but little to be had. Many farmers are feeding wheat. But few cattle and horses will be left. Flour is worth $24 per barrel. Board from $2 to $3 per day."

MISSING EXPRESS.—A special express was announced to leave Portland on Thursday morning, with several hundred copies of the Daily Times, intended for circulation in the upper country. That express has failed to "come to time."

From the Walla Walla Statesman, Jan. 25.

FROM THE MINES.—Mr. C. H. Miller, of Mossman & Miller's express, gives us a few items from the mines. He states that snow is from ten to fifteen feet deep on the mountain from Slate Creek to Florence, but that travel in and out has been constant enough to keep the trail in a passable condition for animals. Provisions seem to be plenty in the mines. No mining is being done, excepting an occasional attempt by some, with the use of fires and the constant application of hot water to keep the rocker free from ice. At the mouth of Slate creek Mr. Miller met a party just in from a point above that place on Salmon river, who reported the discovery of better mines than those in the neighborhood of Florence. They had quite a large quantity of gold, a specimen of which, worth four dollars, the expressman brought down. They came down to the mouth of Slate creek for provisions, and immediately returned. The precise situation of these diggings could not be learned from the discoverers.

LEWISTON.—The latest accounts from Lewiston are to the effect that the people are nearly destitute of wood, and quite so in respect to some articles in the provision line. Some little building is going on, and a saw-mill is in process of erection by Capt. Robie. Messrs. Trevitt & Mays have just completed a fine building. The inhabitants have adopted rules and regulations for the government of the town, made provisions for pre-empting and holding town lots, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Councilmen—Joseph Herring, James Bowers; the Justice of the Peace to act as President of the Board. Justice of the Peace—Robert Dyson. Town Surveyor—J. B. Baker. Recorder—Capt. C. E. Irvine. Constable—Edward Everett. The whole number of votes polled was 105.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—Joseph Prarce, a Canadian Frenchman, was found dead a few days ago on the road between here and Lewiston, where he had evidently frozen to death. It is supposed that he had started for this place.

GREAT LOSS OF STOCK.—From all sections of the country we have accounts of the loss of stock. The severe weather has swept it off at a most fearful rate. Nearly if not quite all the stock that was driven from the Willamette late last season has perished, and a great deal of stock that was in good condition last fall has shared the same fate. Even in the best ranges which the valley affords the mortality has been very great. The loss is estimated at from one-half to two-thirds of all the stock in the valley.

The weather moderated on last Tuesday, since which time we have had more or less sleet and snow. The wind has melted the snow nearly all off from the mountains near this place, but has so far had but little effect in the valley.

FROM SALMON RIVER.—John W. Davis, writing from Florence, Jan. 2, says: No thorough prospecting can be done at present, the snow being full four feet in depth. A description of some of the peculiarities of these mines may not be uninteresting to your readers. Although on the mountain-top, we are not out of the swamps, or "low, marshy ground," and most of the diggings are located in these marshy places. A very heavy turf or sward grows upon these places, and it is often found from one to four feet in depth. To remove this a very stiff and sharp spade is required. This is the most difficult and tedious of the work. This done, you come to several different stratas of clay, then sand, then gravel and gold. The latter is not found in all instances, but in many places it is found in such great quantities that I fear a statement of the amount would appear like a fabulous tale. There are many miners here who are making from $50 to $100 per day; others again are doing much better, making from $500 to $3000 per day. It must be borne in mind that all this is done with a rocker, the nature of the country forbidding the introduction of the more effective appliances for mining.

On the 16th ult. the thermometer stood at 29 degrees below zero, at Walla Walla.

THE MINES.

THE SALMON RIVER MINES.—The Jacksonville Gazette has a letter from Geo. Farber, late of Yreka, describing the Salmon river mines. He says that "they are found on small strips of low land between hills covered with scrub pines. In these places after removing the sod and digging through a stratum of blue clay, a deep bed of decomposed granite is reached, and in this the precious dust is found. The writer affirms that men make from two to twenty, and even as much as one hundred ounces per day with rockers; that in two or three instances that have come under his own observation, three hundred ounces have been dug in a single day. One claim paid twenty pounds per day. He says that there are good diggings for 20,000 men—most of whom can do as well as miners did in the early days of California gold mining. As an old and firm friend, he urges Dr. Thompson to hasten there as soon as spring opens—assuring him that he has met with no place like it for the acquisition of riches since '49–'50."

KLAMATH RIVER.—The late floods have caused many land slides on this river, and new diggings have thus been opened which it is expected will be filled by Chinamen the coming summer.

MORE FROM SALMON RIVER.—A letter from Florence to the Mountaineer says—"Another rich claim has been opened by Messrs. Wilson and Folly, on Summit Flat, near town, in which two men with a rocker are averaging from 75 to 100 ounces per day. Warren & Co., are also doing well about fifty yards from here, making from $100 to $500 per day to the man; and others are doing nearly as well. Claims that pay from $20 to $50 per day to the man, sell for $300 to $500.

NOVEL DIGGINGS.—A few days since, says the Jacksonville (Oregon) Sentinel, of Jan. 4, a party of men, who were ground-sluicing at Blackwell, washed out two human skeletons. On the finger of one was found a gold ring, and among other loose treasures were a silver thimble, and an iron pot containing upward of $300 in coin. The spot is thought to be part of an old Indian burial ground.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Thos. Young and A. M. Sharkey were arrested and taken before the Recorder yesterday morning as being the persons who committed the assault upon Wa Chong, Chinaman, who keeps a store on First street, on Tuesday last. The evidence before the Court was conclusive, as regards their guilt, and his Honor fined them each fifty dollars or go to jail for the term of twenty days. The defendants offered no evidence in extenuation of their offence, but appealed the case to the next term of the Circuit Court; at which time they assert that they will be able to prove their innocence.

ARRIVAL OF THE CORTEZ.—Steamship Cortes, Thos. Huntington, commander, left Esquimalt, V. I., Tuesday, Feb. 18th, at 9½ A. M. Crossed Columbia river bar Wednesday, at 6 A. M., and arrived at Portland same evening.

PASSENGERS.—Mr. Huntoon, Mr. Wright, L. Ensign, Mr. Frank, E. F. Glover, Mr. Batterton, Mr. Nelson, Mr. Moody, A. Wiley, Mr. Dakheimer, lady sister and three children, A. W. Buchanan, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger, and 24 others.

The funeral of the late Capt. Richard Hoyt will take place at his late residence to-morrow (Friday) morning at ten o'clock. The friends of the deceased are requested to attend without further notice. Members of the Masonic fraternity will meet at Masonic Hall at nine o'clock.

MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.—The Cortes has on board company D, 3d artillery, Lieut. Robinson commanding. They are from San Juan Island, and bound for San Francisco.

The steamer Cowlitz, on her way up the Columbia river yesterday, was compelled to break her way through a quantity of newly formed ice. She brought up a large load of baled hay.

OREGON WAR BONDS.—Senator Nesmith, writes to the Statesman, under date of Washington, Dec. 29th:

"Oregon war bonds have sold as high as 90c. in the New York market. For the last few days, however, they have had a downward tendency on account of the probability of a war with England. The last sales of which I have heard were at 85c., as the immediate danger of a war with England seems to have been removed by the surrender of Mason and Slidell. It is possible that stocks will go up again."

The Puget Sound Herald says that Sheriff Tucker, of Pierce county, was arrested by the military authorities on the 11th inst., on an order from acting Governor Turney, for refusing to obey a writ of injunction served on him for seizing the property of the Puget Sound Agricultural Company, for taxes. He was afterwards released on parole to answer at the March term of the District Court for contempt.

NEWS FROM EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS.—Mr. James Street, General Agent of the Overland Telegraph Company, states that information has been received that the whole country east of Fort Churchill to Sand Springs, east of the Sierra Nevadas, is under water; the supposition is that the Humboldt river had overflowed its banks and ran into the Carson river. It had rained incessantly at that point eight days and nights, and when the news left, it was still raining. Much damage had been occasioned by the flood in the vicinity of Carson and Virginia cities. Wood was worth $50 per cord in Virginia City.—San Joaquin Republican.

Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded the practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. [illegible] is an illustrious example [illegible] among the philosophical stars of his [illegible] in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay is fully equalled by him in this country, as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a diploma and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.

SEWING MACHINES

ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make A TIGHT LOCK-STITCH, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer; should stitch, fell, run and gather; and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.

A Steamboat Captain Sold by Dodge, the Vocalist.

(Concluded.)

For a moment the captain stood like a statue. A thought struck him. Where was Dodge? Some one remembered that he had not been seen since the boat left Natchez. The captain flew to the room of the Yankee singer and found a note addressed to himself. He opened it and read:

Dear Sir—Thinking you might possibly have the pleasure of relating to your friends how you caught Dodge napping, by persuading him to make a declaration of love to your talented and truly accomplished lady, you tried your utmost, both by misrepresentation and personal influence to get me into your skillfully woven net; and thinking when we get among Romans we are justifiable in doing as Romans do, I have, by the same method, taken possession of your beautiful wife without her own or your consent.

Your lady shall receive the attention and kindness that none other better than a Bostonian knows how to bestow, and unless you conclude to "moot ship," acknowledge the corn, and immediately take possession of the prize, (which between you and myself, I consider the most manly course,) I shall, if it meets your approval, take her under my charge in the next steamer bound for the Crescent City.

Yours for fun, let it come at whose expense it may—in a horn. Ossian E. Dodge.

P. S.—Enclosed you will find the amount of my fare, and inasmuch as I have taken possession of your fair it is perfectly fair that you should take possession of my fare. D.

In a voice of thunder the Captain gave orders to bout ship, and having now an excellent opportunity to cool down, and being of a generous and noble turn of mind, he concluded to acknowledge himself sold by the "Infernal Yankee," return him his fare, and present him with a life ticket on the steamer B—— S——, current all seasons of the year.

About the time the Captain was raging the wildest, Dodge was explaining to his fair companion how her liege lord had endeavored to entrap him, and ended by alluding to the letter in the state room.

The lady trembled, wept violently for a moment, and finally wound up with a merry laugh, exclaiming:

"Oh! won't he be angry for a few minutes. But he is a noble fellow and will in half an hour be willing and happy to forget and forgive. But he shan't forget as long as I have a tongue. But, Mr. Dodge, hadn't we better have the driver drive faster? for the captain will return immediately on the receipt of your letter. I know he will, sir, for we are very fond of each other."

Dodge ordered the driver to increase his speed, and inform him if a steamer was in sight, and was informed that there was already one to be seen. Dodge immediately took a view of the distant steamer and discovered it to be the one for which he was looking, and ordered the negro to drive to the levee.

As the bow line was thrown ashore, Dodge and the pseudo widow alighted and walked slowly towards the boat.

The Captain overcome with joy at the sight of his young bride, sprang from the tafrail and soon clasped her in his arms. After a few private words he turned around to Dodge and said:

"My dear fellow, I'll own up that I have been sold, and if you will promise never to relate the facts of the case south of Mason and Dixon's line, you will be entitled to a cabin passage on my steamer till the year 1900."

"Much obliged, Captain, but should prefer not to accept it, as jokes that are paid for are not as long remembered or so well enjoyed as those founded on affection for the vidders."

"Hit again, by the great father of rivers," exclaimed the Captain, "but I'm behind time and must be off; so God bless you, my dear fellow, but amid the exciting scenes of concertizing, never forget Captain ——, of the steamer B—— S——, or your elopement with another man's wife."

On his arrival at New Orleans, Dodge found a letter in the post office containing together with the good wishes of the Captain and his wife, an elaborately finished and massive gold ring, on which was engraved the Captain's name and residence, and underneath the simple but expressive word, "sold."
